

Are you over 60?

Do you have views on sharing photos online and via social media?

Come and discuss your views as part of a research project being held at Oxford Brookes University, Headington Campus on Feb 23, 2018, 10.30–12.30.

The research project is investigating why older people do and do not share photos on line and whether sharing photos may help people stay connected and lessen loneliness.

If you are over 60, your opinion matters to us, come and talk in a small group about your experiences and opinions for a max of 2 hours, refreshments will be provided.

This study has been granted research ethics approval by The Open University and Oxford Brookes University (HREC/2017/2498 Minocha).

For further information contact Dr Sarah Quinton, Oxford Brookes University. sequinton@brookes.ac.uk or call 07990 972616.

Some assistance with transport may be available based on need.